

You are appreciated

*We often buy a plaque or flowers
For people when they're dead
And often we hold some regrets
For words that weren't said
We talk about the things they did
And at times we do go on
We all sing from the same hymn sheet
You're a great one when you're gone
And there's nothing wrong in doing those things
For folk that we held dear
But maybe we should give more praise
To people when they're here
Let's take you for example
You're a person warm and true
And to help a friend or neighbour
There's nothing you won't do
You're always there to lend an ear
With a reassuring smile
You never look for any thanks
For that is not your style
We could easily take for granted
The kindness that you share
And could be fooled into believing
That you should be always there
Just remember I appreciate
The things you do each day
And if you ever feel you need a friend
I'm just a call away*
